Section 2: Reason for Your Request

Please select one of the following options:

- I wish to establish a new binding death benefit nomination
- I wish to renew or amend an existing binding death benefit nomination
- I wish to cancel an existing binding death benefit nomination (complete Sections 1, 2 and 6 only)

Section 3: Type of Nomination

Please select one of the following options:

Non-binding Nomination

A non-binding death benefit nomination is an instruction to the Trustee which sets out the dependants and/or legal personal representative you would prefer to receive your super benefit in the event of your death. The Trustee will consider your nominated beneficiaries provided by you but is not legally bound to follow the nomination in the event of your death.

Binding Nomination

If there is a valid binding nomination at the time of your death, it is binding on the Trustee to ensure that your super benefit is paid to the beneficiary nominated in accordance with your instruction.

The Trustee is not required to comply with a death benefit nomination if the Trustee is aware that the nomination is invalid or would breach a Court Order. In the event a person you nominate is not a dependant at the time of your death, e.g. because they have died before you, your nomination will no longer be valid and the Trustee will pay the benefit in accordance with the trust deed.

Binding Nomination (Lapsing)

This type of binding nomination expires or lapses after three (3) years. You will need to renew or make a new binding nomination to ensure your nomination instructions continue to be valid. You may revoke or update your binding nomination by completing a new Beneficiary Nomination Form.

Binding Nomination (Non-lapsing)

Non-lapsing binding nominations do not have an expiry date, but you can revoke your nomination or update your nomination.

Reversionary Beneficiary Nomination (Only available in relation to new pensions)

The nominated person (generally a spouse) will automatically continue receiving the pension after your death.

Section 4: Your Beneficiaries

To ensure your nominations are valid, they must add up to 100%.

Section 5: Important Information

General Advice

The information in this document is general information only and does not take into account your personal financial situation or needs. You should consult a licensed financial adviser to obtain financial advice that is tailored to suit your personal circumstances.

Reversionary Beneficiary Nominations (Pension Portfolios Only)

If a reversionary beneficiary nomination is made, your pension payments will continue to be paid to your nominated reversionary beneficiary. You can nominate your spouse including a de facto or same sex partner, or your child as a reversionary beneficiary. You can also nominate your child as your reversionary beneficiary if, on the date of your death, your child is:

- under age 18;
- over age 18 but under age 25 and financially dependent on you; or
- permanently disabled.

The laws in this area are complex and you should seek appropriate professional advice before nominating your child as a reversionary beneficiary.

Death benefits can only be paid as a pension to a reversionary beneficiary who is a dependant at the date of a member's death.

Please note that a reversionary beneficiary nomination can only be changed or revoked by commuting the pension and initiating a new income stream.

Who can I nominate as a beneficiary?

You can nominate a dependant or your legal personal representative. If you nominate your legal personal representative it is important that you have a valid will and keep it up-to date, as the Trustee must pay your death benefit to your estate.

Your dependants generally include your spouse (including a qualifying de facto spouse of the same or opposite sex), child, a person financially dependent on you, or someone with whom you have an "interdependency relationship".

Who are my dependants?

Under superannuation law, "dependants" include the following:

- any spouse (including a same-sex legal or de facto partner);
- any child (including a child of a spouse);
- any person in an 'interdependent relationship' with you; or
- any other person who the Trustee considers was dependent on you for maintenance or support, at the date of your death.

Someone can be in an interdependent relationship with you if: you have a close personal relationship, you live together, one or each of you provides the other with financial support, and one or each of you provides the other with domestic support and personal care. Dependency can also arise where two people have a close personal relationship but don't live together or provide each other with financial support or personal care because of physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability.

Your nomination may become invalid if:

- one of your beneficiaries dies before you do;
- one of your nominated dependants is not a dependant at the time of your death;
- you are no longer a member of the super fund at the time of your death; or
- the nomination was not made directly by you (it is Trustee policy not to accept nominations through Power of Attorneys, or from anyone other than you).

We recommend that you periodically review your nomination as it is your responsibility to ensure that your nomination continues to be appropriate in accordance with your personal circumstances.
